Thanks dda1(rangeraven), for your assistance. Much appreciated.
I'll get to the site you recommended ASAP.

N:dlzc D:aol T:com (dlzc)'s responses ,

" Nothing to do with TWLS. Appears to be total crap. I'll avoid the rest. "

" No problem. Your command of the English language is your problem. "

" The website is a joke. And you are the only one who doesn't get it. I recommend you actually study the topic. Start with "Spacetime Physics" by Taylor and Wheeler. "

Granted, my English may be unique, but there is always a reason for everything. I spent 8 years fading away into the nowhere and nowhen. The cause was a nasty case of Hypoglycemia. The brain was shutting down as the result of this. Eventually I no longer knew which was my right hand and which was my left, which hand held the fork and which hand held the knife, I no longer knew how to spell my brothers name, I no longer had the mental capacity required to tie a pair of shoe laces, I no longer had any short term memory at all, if four pills were placed in the palm of my hand I could not tell you how many were there, for 3 was now my limitation of visual group recognition. I also had to read words letter by letter, and then read a sentence over and over and over until I could gain some understanding of the sentence. I no longer had visual depth perception. And the list goes on, and on, and on,....
The Cat Scans showed that I was in deep deep trouble indeed.

Doctors said there was nothing that could be done about the hypoglycemia except stick to a six meal a day diet to stabilize the glucose levels in my blood, and then hope for the best. Still having some smarts, I realized that the body was not responding to sugar intake properly, and so I consumed massive amounts of sugar on and off, until the proper bodily functions kicked in once again. To the doctors surprise, the Hypoglycemia was cured.

However, during all this fading and returning, different neurological functions shut down individually and at random times. This allowed them to be identifiable. Normally they all shut down together such as when one goes to sleep, and therefore under these normal circumstances are never seen individually. After some exposure to these components of consciousness, it became evident as to what conscious is, and how it works. I used this knowledge to reconstruct myself. It took another 8 years of my life to do so, 8 years to convert myself from having a rigid body that moves with primitive robotic like movements, to a body of the norm, to a body that could once again taste food, a body that could once again smell odors, a body that could walk up stairs, etc., and a mind that sees reality with a brand new and fresh perspective.

My recovery was no less extreme than what you see in the movie "Awakenings", with the exception that it was not drugs that brought me back, nor was I brought me back in a matter of days, but instead it required a massive agonizing effort, and many many years of it. Please, please, hold down the applause. Thank you.

So, perhaps ( N:dlzc D:aol T:com (dlzc)) is correct about my English, perhaps it does not contain a sufficient amount of conformational and impressive structure.

However, my experience created independent self taught thinking, and eventually the reaching of my present understandings that are revealed on my web site. But if I seem to be a bit behind, perhaps you can understand why.

Again, I will check the web site you recommended ASAP.

Thanks.
