

Re: TWIN PARADOX AND EINSTEIN'S PRINCIPLE OF MAXIMUM ABSURDITY

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics.relativity/2006-06/msg01481.html>

---

- From: "Koobee Wublee" <koobee.wublee@xxxxxxxx>
  - Date: 19 Jun 2006 13:07:19 -0700
-

"T Wake" <Usenet.es7AT@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news: PadnZ8SZZVyfgvZRVny0A@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

"Koobee Wublee" <koobee.wublee@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:1150701797.554880.126730@xx

The Twin's Paradox cannot be resolved even through GR.

Are you still going on about this nonsense? You have invented a straw man and intend to beat it constantly.

Talking about the issue SR has problems in is not nonsense.

You don't understand what the "paradox" is trying to teach or what it's purpose is.

Now, this is nonsense.

You have fixated on the words, coupled with very poor understanding of physics and continue to rant.

This is one of the many attempts for you to avoid the issue. There is no resolution to the paradox, and you know it. Instead of coming out, confront, and admit the problem in SR just like any scientists should do, you choose to behave like a religious zealous defending his religion.

Re: TWIN PARADOX AND EINSTEIN'S PRINCIPLE OF MAXIMUM ABSURDITY

Seriously, either go back to college or find a new hobby. Your understanding of relativity is so bad, you don't even know where to start looking at flaws in it.

What do you call yourself then? Some one who tries to do anything to avoid discussing the subject that will prove SR or your religion wrong?

Why try to redirect post? It shows guilt on your part.