

Re: Aren't they downside up?

Re: Aren't they downside up?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics.relativity/2006-09/msg02312.html>

- From: "PD" <TheDraperFamily@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 26 Sep 2006 15:13:26 -0700
-

Barry wrote:

Why are "spacetime" diagrams drawn downside up?

If we're falling through the void, shouldn't our paths point downwards.

Because then we'd have to use the left-hand rule.

It's much easier then to visualize our galaxy going down the plug hole.

By the way, why don't the stars go around the galaxy at the right speed?

Barry