

Re: Hi Folks, Pmb is back! :)

Re: Hi Folks, Pmb is back! :)

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.physics.relativity/2006-11/msg01994.html>

- From: pmb61@xxxxxxxxxxxx
 - Date: 22 Nov 2006 13:31:30 -0800
-

Ken S. Tucker wrote:

pmb61@xxxxxxxxxxxx wrote:

Hi Bill Hobba, Ken Tucker, Tom Roberts, Steve Carlip etc. I'm back. The place I was posting became too restricting when I was not allowed to reference a web page where I made calculations. It was a weird way to moderate so I left. I'm glad to see you all posting here still, even you too Tom Roberts. I never really had anything against you. I guess in the past I had a different attitude than I do currently. No hard feelings, okay?

So! What kind of interesting things are you folks thinking about lately? Bill? Whatcha up to nowadays?

Best wishes and its real good to be back

Pete (aka Pmb)

Hi Pete, hope you'll stay awhile.
Lately a few of us have been considering forming a new moderated group to encourage originality and speculation that is discouraged in sp.research, which is an educational group.
The steering committee is designated the Advanced Communications Research (ARC) eList, send me an email if you want to join.
It's designed to be a much more vibrant group that's very much needed.
Best Regards
Ken

Ken

In the near future there is a possibility that I will be producing a TV show on local cable related to science. Perhaps we can connect the two.

Re: Hi Folks, Pmb is back! :)

Re: Hi Folks, Pmb is back! :)

We can at least publicize it on the show. It'd be great for audience feedback and there are several Cambridge/Boston area physicists who have agree to be on the show, e.g. Dr. John Stachel (BU) and Dr. Owen Gingerich (Harvard) and Dr. Alan Levine (MIT Center for Space Research).

There is a lot of potential here. Eventually I may get Alan Guth on the show. Time will tell.

Best wishes

Pete

.