My postings until now are nothing more than an attempt to discover at what point the majority on this forum is fooling themselves.

That makes sense, because it wasn't like you had anything intelligent to say. You sound like an academic. You probably teach and you are used to students sucking up to you and never challenging you. You want people to admire you for your intellect, but in reality, you have achieved nothing remarkable. How about showing us your PhD thesis?

Anyway I think you will find that if you approach the people here respectfully you can learn a lot from them and you will discover that they are mostly very friendly and very intelligent indeed.
