There are a few exceptions and even they know that if they spoke up, ranks would close in on them, Remember the scientist who blew the whistle on the drug companies corruption and was sacked and couldn't get a job anywhere in the world in his field. Anyhow he would be better off not working for any of them anyway, Poisoning 99% of patients.taking their drugs OOps medicines. Technology is one branch of science that has to prove its theories by physical evidence and usage. Not alway but usually not harmful. . Actually all things in the universe is physical ultimately and slowly slowly we are being made aware of that.fact. Still a long way to go before we all twig. To much money and power tied up in bogus science. .I can see most of you in this group have been brainwashed. So sad because I thought this group was looking for the absolute truth or "absolutes". In science I don't think most of you know the meaning of the word absolute let alone its significance in science. I see there are a few sceptics in the group though, who suspect there is something fishy going on in science in general. By the way if there are any old guys in this group, they are now promoting illegal drugs of antimeres. Not that they haven't been promoting the same for other illnesses and diseases one way or another for yonks.. I don't know which is the worse the legal or illegal drugs. I suppose most of you guys who abused me for my condemnation of science would agree with all that. medical crap. "Oh you know it is science".I would be dead if I didn't take my meds. Strange that I have never taken them and I am 85 How dare I suggest it is not good to take them.. Come off it guys come down from the clouds and face reality that most scientific experiments are money involved and statistics and experiments are mostly twisted, and the half baked scientists have brain washed you, if you are not already one of them. Ouch! How can you sleep at night. I think I said enough to get your hackles up. See you calling me a half wit again soon.By the way I am now so experienced in life there in nothing you can say to annoy me. I just feel sorry for you. I know what it is like having been like you myself once. When we are young and inexperienced we make mistakes don't we. Arthur Knight..

good post arthar, thanks you put it very succinctly

Re: Why I am hard on science

Yes, good post. It seems Arthur is a good guy, but I've noticed a bitter sigh in his words.

what, bitter? this is nothen for instance when did you hear a dentist telling you that if you drop sugar your teeth regenerate
