Eric Gisse has a way to send any answer he does not like to a newsgroup called alt.morons. Eric is going to fit right into the scientific world once he gets out of school. The only thing Eric seems to have trouble with is frames of reference, but I am sure scientists will forgive him that little weakness, considering his computer expertise.

if you figured out that was him doin all that bad things than you shoul also be able to know hoe he did it

Why? I know computers pretty good but have never taken the time to figure that out. Perhaps I'll try and post the answer here.
