

Re: New version of a relativity FAQ

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics.relativity/2008-06/msg01544.html>

---

- From: "Juan R." González-Álvarez <juanREMOVE@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Sat, 28 Jun 2008 11:48:03 +0200 (CEST)
-

Eric Gisse wrote on Fri, 27 Jun 2008 08:24:51 -0700:

On Jun 27, 5:27 am, "Juan R." González-Álvarez <juanREM...@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

But the more surprising point is that you do not show the more simple sign of gratitude when your mistakes are corrected and you learn some physics!

Gratitude is reserved for either people I respect or for exercises that aren't sniping matches. You aren't interested in teaching, you just want to pick up on anything I do wrong and rub it in my face over and over. It is transparent, and even more pathetic.

Let us take a look to **your** USENET profile

http://groups.google.com/groups/profile?enc\_user=IBMn3BEAAACl\_iwDAmEm9qJ5dry150FJkdEasx1kiYTQavV7mdW13Q

(\blockquote
I'm a physics student – as in, I actually study physics unlike most of the people I **laugh** at on these newsgroups.
)

No comment is needed!

—
Center for CANONICAL |SCIENCE)
<http://canonicalscience.org>