

Re: Big Bang Busted in Science Classes for High Schools

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2004-06/2172.html>

---

From: Shrikantha S. Shastry (shrikanthas_at_yahoo.com)

Date: 06/07/04

Date: 6 Jun 2004 22:34:55 -0700

nightbat <nightbat@home.ffni.com> wrote in message news:<40C0220C.9F8108F8@home.ffni.com>...

> nightbat wrote

>

> "Shrikantha S. Shastry" wrote:

>

>> And so, wave particle duality of energy even as observed by you makes >> it observer dependent. This observer dependent nature of energy makes >> it illusory. After all, illusion needs its observers. What is an >> illusion without an observer? As such, all observed phenomena are >> illusory.

>>

>> On the contrary, the unobserved singularity is real which alone is the >> origin for the whole illusory observers' universe.

>>

>> S S Shastry

>

> nightbat

>

> Ha, ha, I predicted your continued mixed up null understandings

> despite any of my proper citations and presented resolution and > clarifications. Shastry sadly, there is no apparent hope for you, for > you twist much of what is told to you back to your null self notions.

> The Universe is not subject to observer dependency as previously > advised. It is your illusion that it is and no amount of dialog in > counter evidence will ultimately satisfy or correct your mixed up > attributes, clueless bewilderment, and fixation on singularity.

>

>

> the nightbat

nightbat, singularity is singular, and so, includes us within its universe. As such, singularity is not available outside us as you have been explaining it away outside you within the universe as in the present day physics. This limiting explanation of singularity is simplistic at best and misleading at worst.

sci.physics: Re: Big Bang Busted in Science Classes for High Schools

S S Shastry