

sci.physics: Re: The history of windows.

Re: The history of windows.

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2004-09/10224.html>

From: Grant Edwards (grante_at_visi.com)

Date: 09/28/04

Date: 28 Sep 2004 16:49:22 GMT

On 2004-09-28, Shmuel (Seymour J.) Metz <spamtrap@library.lspace.org.invalid> wrote:

>>But even Unixing is becoming an exercise in eye candy.

>

> Perhaps. But the Gnome and KDE folks will have to really work at it if > they want to become as bad as Redmondware. They're currently nowhere > near. But if I see a paper clip[1] then I'm going to start looking at > bsd instead of Linux.*

Huh? BSD runs Gnome and KDE as well. If you want to avoid platforms capable of running Gnome and KDE, you're going to have to stick with CP/M.

--

Grant Edwards

grante
at visi.com

Yow! People humiliating a salami!