

Re: Matter is relative like Space and Time

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2004-10/7990.html>

---

From: Eric Gisse (fsegg_at_uaf.edu)

Date: 10/29/04

Date: 29 Oct 2004 06:47:38 -0700

mobydick@gmail.com (Mike Helland) wrote in message news:<11990c07.0410280647.71f36006@posting.google.com>...
> "Morituri-Max" <newage@sendarico.net> wrote in message news:<%r%fd.10531$186.1674@fe1.texas.rr.com>...
> > Moby Dick wrote:
> >
> > > My claim is that "matter, like space and time, is relative."
> >
> > So tell us what that statement helps you do to improve scientific knowledge..
> > what is the practical benefit?
>
> It simplifies our knowledge for one.

[snip]

Sure it does.

Since you haven't yet responded to this simple question, I ask it yet again: Have you learned calculus yet?