

Re: Antarctic's ice 'melting faster'

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2005-02/1338.html>

From: Mike (eleatis_at_yahoo.gr)

Date: 02/02/05

Date: 2 Feb 2005 14:51:26 -0800

robert j. kolker wrote:

> Franz Heymann wrote:

>

>>

>> You are singing from the wrong song sheet.

>> Global warming is causing the breaking up of the ice sheets, not the >> other way round as you seem to think.

>> The consequence is tha cities like Venice, and possibly London, have >> had it.

>

> If they keep the flood locks open, Venice will be swamped. If they close > the locks the circulation of the waters around venice will be halted and > Venice will become a swamp, smells and all. You may be right on this

>

> Arrivaderce Venice! Itsa beena a nica to known you.

>

> There are worse things that can happen. If the Atlantic side of La Palma > in the Canaries slides into the ocean in 8 hours, waves up to 200 metres > high will swamp the East Coast of the North America from New Brunswick > to Florida. The water will rush 15 miles inland where there is no high > ground to stop it. Boston, New York, The New Jersey Coast and down to > Wasington and further south to Miami will be flooded out. It will be > a > disaster. And it is just a matter of time.

>

> Bob Kolker

Does this mean no more gangs in the Bronx?

sci.physics: Re: Antarctic's ice 'melting faster'

Seriously, when water freezes it expands. I expect the sea level to drop if Antarctic ice melts. Also, bring better clima stability.
Mike