

Re: Terraforming the Moon

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2005-03/0690.html>

jimp_at_specsol-spam-sux.com

Date: 03/01/05

Date: Tue, 1 Mar 2005 15:09:33 +0000 (UTC)

In sci.physics habshi <habshi@anony.net> wrote:

- > Its not a 'bomb shelter' its 30 miles of wide roads built into the mountainside. do you know
- > how long 30 miles is ? the distance from LA to its remote suburbs which can take an hour to travel.
- > If they can build 30 miles in 6 months , consider what the mighty USA could do with dynamite etc.!!
- > Probably the whole 10000 miles in a year !! and after that we have an everlasting safe , cheap ,
- > transport system .

You moron, from your own link:

"The Siege Tunnels were carved out by the Merchant Marine to defend Gibraltar from the mainland during the "Great Siege" of 1779 to 1783. The original goal of the tunnels was to get a cannon on the northern face of the Rock known as the 'Notch'. Originally the tunnel was only 82 feet in length but by the end of World War II, the tunnels had reach a winding distance of over 30 miles."

Gibraltar was a military installation from the start and never any sort of transportation system.

You are a drooling idiot, totally full of shit, and didn't even read the link you provided to prove your point.

I have considered what the US could do with tunnels as proven by the New York Subway system.

You would have a maintenance money pit with no end in sight as shown by the series of articles at:

<http://www.newyorkmetro.com/nymetro/news/features/11160/>

It is beset by floods, fires, equipment failures, and massive ventilation problems.

Oh, you didn't know running trains constantly generates metal dust that if not removed from the tunnels causes health problems and massive fire hazards?

I thought not.

sci.physics: Re: Terraforming the Moon

There have been $26 billion in repairs in the past 2 decades.

It is estimated that another $20 billion to $30 billion needs to be spent on repairs over the next five years just to maintain the status quo.

Ojective proof that your concept of "an everlasting safe, cheap, transport system" is just childish nonsense and you are a dumb ass idiot.

Go back to India and get a job as a goat herder, though I doubt you are qualified to do even that with your limited mental abilities.

--

Jim Pennino

Remove -spam-sux to reply.