

Re: Runaway Global Warming Possible!

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2005-03/9040.html>

From: Ian St. John (istjohn_at_noemail.usa)

Date: 03/17/05

Date: Wed, 16 Mar 2005 22:14:32 -0500

Rand Simberg wrote:

> On Wed, 16 Mar 2005 09:00:12 -0500, in a place far, far away, "Ian St. John" <istjohn@noemail.usa> made the phosphor on my monitor glow in such a way as to indicate that:

>

>>>>> And agains, the issue is not your 'precise terminology' about just how little the U.S. admits but the FACTS that no WMDs were found in Iraq.

>>>>>

>>>>> <http://slate.msn.com/id/2114820/>

>>>>

>>>> Wow. The 'official report' which found no evidence of the machinery must have gotten it wrong and been scooped by Slate. Is that what you are saying?

>>>

>>> No.

>>>

>>> It might help if you'd learn to read, though.

>>

>> Long ago. Do you want to argue semantics? The story seems to be a claim that their were WMD facilities that were offloaded and sold elsewhere before the war

>

> And after.

>

> *"According to the supporting story, Dr. Sami al-Araji, the deputy minister of industry, says that after the fall of Baghdad in April 2003, "looters systematically dismantled and removed tons of machinery from Saddam Hussein's most important weapons installations, including some with high-precision equipment capable of making parts for nuclear arms."*

'Supporting bullshit'? Your failure to use your brain to estimate the chances of such a military operation operating unimpeded and crossing borders out of Iraq while under U.S. control and surveillance from air and ground, just illustrates how dim you are.

sci.physics: Re: Runaway Global Warming Possible!

>

> As I said, you weren't reading. Is English not your first language?

I was reading. But I was taking the bullshit a bit less seriously than you, apparently.

>

> Are you capable of embarrassment?

Yes. I can see that you wish some 'support' in your time of need?

>

> I wonder what's in the Bekaa Valley that the Syrians want to protect > with their troops?

The Bekaa Valley perhaps? Stronghold of their allies?

>

> Just an idle thought...

Most of your thoughts are so idle as to be without any power. You really should try putting some effort behind your crap.