

Re: Physicists have made a form of nickel that does not exist in nature

Re: Physicists have made a form of nickel that does not exist in nature

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2005-04/msg02652.html>

- From: "Puppet_Sock" <puppet_sock@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 19 Apr 2005 13:14:42 -0700
-

Uncle Al wrote:

[snip]

> BTW, "nickel" is named after the Devil. Can you see!

Indeed. Via "kupfernickel" or "Satan's copper."

Socks

.

• References:

- ◆ Physicists have made a form of nickel that does not exist in nature
 - ◇ From: Sam Wormley
 - ◆ Re: Physicists have made a form of nickel that does not exist in nature
 - ◇ From: Uncle Al
-
- Prev by Date: Re: The physics of [GPS] music.
 - Next by Date: Re: Moving Through Space Is Absolute
 - Previous by thread: Re: Physicists have made a form of nickel that does not exist in nature
 - Next by thread: How Do the Europeans Get Rid of Nuclear Waste?
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread