

Re: NMR combating terrorists

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2005-08/msg00444.html>

---

- From: "jabara" <nospam@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Mon, 1 Aug 2005 16:22:48 -0500
-

<pmlonline@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:1122930433.309431.86490@xx

> jabara wrote:

- >>> Says who? Maybe in Russia, but U.S. isn't scanning for nuclear
- >>> devices. I doubt any country is.
- >>
- >> Says Me. You are not in the know.
- >> The USA is, and has been, scanning for years.
- >> You think those are only metal detectors you walk through ?
- >
- > Then lets just cross our fingers you are correct. Like Dan said, there
- > are dirty bombs that contain materials undetectable by such methods.

Bullshit. These detectors have been around since the 50's and easily detect your "materials", no problem.

They have been fielded since before the collapse of the USSR.

- > Although NMR should be able to detect them. Additionally, NMR can
- > theoretically detect any type of explosive.
- >

Impracticable

NMR, only within a few feet, and no steel or iron near at all.

Gasoline is an explosive, so is sawdust.

.

---

- Follow-Ups:
  - ◆ Re: NMR combating terrorists
◇ From: pmlonline
- References:
  - ◆ NMR combating terrorists
◇ From: pmlonline
  - ◆ Re: NMR combating terrorists

Re: NMR combating terrorists

◇ From: Sam Wormley

◆ Re: NMR combating terrorists

◇ From: pmlonline

◆ Re: NMR combating terrorists

◇ From: jake

◆ Re: NMR combating terrorists

◇ From: pmlonline

◆ Re: NMR combating terrorists

◇ From: jabara

◆ Re: NMR combating terrorists

◇ From: pmlonline

- Prev by Date: Re: NMR combating terrorists
- Next by Date: Re: NMR combating terrorists
- Previous by thread: Re: NMR combating terrorists
- Next by thread: Re: NMR combating terrorists
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread