Flooding??

These are my own views, I shall not be talked down to by an imbecile like yourself who as no manners. Didn't you understand anything I said?

'Great spirits have always encountered opposition from mediocre minds. The mediocre mind is incapable of understanding the man who refuses to bow blindly to conventional prejudices and chooses instead to express his opinions courageously and honestly.' – Your totally mediocre to the nth degree.

You must have a chip the size of this planet on your shoulder, what makes you the God of this newsgroup!

You are the worthless toad! How dare you undermine a person's freedom of speech and belief.

I assume one of your chief interests (obviously your life is dreadfully sad) is fishing in Usenet:

1. Fish for newbie's or people I dislike in a newsgroup.
2. Catch this fish then berate the person's viewpoints, attacking grammatical errors if they exist as a low form of attack. (I know I have bad grammar get over it, but I do have a brain unlike you where the spinal cord would suffice – ask Einstein).
3. Hope the person as a weak mind.
4. If person doesn't agree then become extremely rude. I'm the God of this newsgroup, you are an idiot (Blah Blah) – you will now bow and believe everything I say.

5. Print "You are wrong"
6. Goto 5 To Infinity

You've picked on the wrong fish!

I'd say you were a piranha.

My belief that nature is God is fully supported by the conjecture that all things are a part of God. So maybe I should have said God = Everything, which is much more accurate.

But for a real blunder take for instance one of the major gaffes in physics:

Last night on BBC2's Horizon about The Hawking Paradox – Stephen Hawking's 30 year belief in his equation which indicated a loss of information in a black hole. He was wrong about this, retracting this view for a more ludicrous version.
