

Re: Anyone is both God and an insect, depending on what he compares himself to.

Re: Anyone is both God and an insect, depending on what he compares himself to.

---

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2005-09/msg01653.html>

---

- From: donstockbauer@xxxxxxxxxxx
  - Date: 17 Sep 2005 09:28:00 -0700
-

Children! Children! Enough of this time-wasting debating. It's off to bed with you so sleep can wash all this mind poison from your brains. And say your prayers.

.

---

• References:

- ◆ Dark Matter: Is it just a case of vibrational rates?
◇ From: Wizard of Odd
  - ◆ Re: Dark Matter: Is it just a case of vibrational rates?
◇ From: Autymn D. C.
  - ◆ Re: Dark Matter: Is it just a case of vibrational rates?
◇ From: Wizard of Odd
  - ◆ Re: Dark Matter: Is it just a case of vibrational rates?
◇ From: Autymn D. C.
  - ◆ Re: Anyone is both God and an insect, depending on what he compares himself to.
◇ From: Autymn D. C.
  - ◆ Re: Anyone is both God and an insect, depending on what he compares himself to.
◇ From: Wizard of Odd
-
- Prev by Date: Re: WHAT IS A QUNTUM LASER?
  - Next by Date: Re: A New Foundation for Physics
  - Previous by thread: Re: Anyone is both God and an insect, depending on what he compares himself to.
  - Next by thread: Infinity is random.
  - Index(es):
    - ◆