

NIST and MIT Confirm that $E=mc^2$

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2006-01/msg01410.html>

- From: "Mike Jr." <n00spam@xxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 14 Jan 2006 10:02:46 -0800
-

"Albert Einstein was correct in his prediction that $E=mc^2$, according to scientists at the Commerce Department's National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) who conducted the most precise direct test ever of what is perhaps the most famous formula in science."

<http://www.physlink.com/News/051229Emc2Einstein.cfm>

--Mike Jr.

.

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: NIST and MIT Confirm that $E=mc^2$
 - ◇ From: The old Sorcerer
 - ◆ Re: NIST and MIT Confirm that $E=mc^2$
 - ◇ From: Douglas Eagleson
- Prev by Date: Re: some flaws in the questions and answers section of the first chapter
- Next by Date: Re: "How Does Light "Know" How Fast to Travel?"
- Previous by thread: A few basic physics Qs
- Next by thread: Re: NIST and MIT Confirm that $E=mc^2$
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread