

Re: Consistency of the speed of light.

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2006-02/msg00575.html>

- From: "Eric Gisse" <jowr.pi@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 4 Feb 2006 23:33:29 -0800
-

Spaceman wrote:

"Eric Gisse" <jowr.pi@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:1139106841.439631.4120@xx
| Seeing your responses to the others who have replied to this just tells | me that I, in fact, are correct. You are incapable of abstract thought
| beyond what you see in your every day life.
|
| I don't care if you don't like that answer, what you think has no
| bearing on anybody else's life except yours and your children. I do
| feel sorry for your children, though.

Eric, leave my children out of this and act like a freaking man instead of a puke like Mike Varney that has to start talking about children when there is no reason to.

If you truly are thinking about my kids at all,
SEEK HELP NOW!
otherwise.
try and see that use of supposed wrong math in other math is still just wrong.
wrong = wrong
wrong + right = wrong + right and you can't get rid of the wrong by adding right math to it.
If my adding miles is wrong, then so is the use of the same thing in your math. just wrong.
so.
is it right or wrong.
If it is wrong. so are you.
If it is right , your math is right for your situation
(limiting to lightspeed)
I am not limiting.
you are.. no big deal.
you are limited to view.,
I am not.

Re: Consistency of the speed of light.

I touched a nerve. Good.

Every time you post something stupid, I will be sure to mention the corresponding mental abuse you are most likely inflicting on your children.

.