The Lorentz Force law absolutely denies magnetic forces doing work. I have told you this over and over – the force is perpendicular to the direction of movement so work is not done. Yet you refuse to understand, and instead quote things that are irrelevant.

Nobody gives a shit about Lord Kelvin. He was wrong, and nearly a century dead. However, that does NOT mean every crackpot idea is possible.

Nobody gives a shit about Ajay Sharma. Period. I was surprised that you managed to get stupider, but you did as soon as you started using Ajay Sharma in your arguments.

You have no counter to my argument from actual physics. You have no working model to prove me wrong. You have no understanding of what you are arguing against. You have no clue.

Don't you know the laws of physics?

To a level you will never achieve.
