

Re: A few silly questions

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2007-02/msg03864.html>

- From: "Wayne Dobson" <nospam@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sun, 25 Feb 2007 22:09:32 GMT
-

"David L. Burkhead" <dburkhead@xxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:FfadnYz57eoiY0PYnZ2dnUVZ_ragnZ2d@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Wayne Dobson wrote:

"David L. Burkhead" <dburkhead@xxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:65mdncvODfrkRkPYnZ2dnUVZ_o6gnZ2d@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Ok, but this whole thing is about a group of people trying to muffle
free speech and that doesn't sit well with me.

Oh, bullshit. You think you're the only one with a right of "free speech." People who disagree with you also have that right in case
you didn't know.

David, you are a Borg. You are incapable of thinking for yourself.
You thoughts are the thoughts of the collective. You reality is constructed by others. Your mantra is: "assimilate or destroy." You argue on the basis of outright--lies and revision. Your views are based on mindless conformity and self--deception. You are a fool.

And this relates to the statement above exactly how?

You can't be reasoned with.

If someone thinks you are spouting nonsense, they have a perfect right to say so.

Re: A few silly questions

Revision.

"You keep using that word. I do not think it means what you think it means."

Has someone just taught you to read? I must have been thinking of something else.

Do you even own a dictionary? I didn't even say that the person had to be right. Just that they had to think you are spouting nonsense.

You are part of the collective. You don't think.

I
especially didn't like attempts find my home address, to send someone over.

Nah, you'd much rather insult others from the anonymity of usenet.

If you're looking for a friend, I'm not he. I'm not going to give you my address, nor my telephone number.

Big, tough, he-man.

Nah, flattery ain't gonna do it, either.

Call me cranky.

"Paranoid" is a better term.

You must be one of those conspiracy theorists.

You're the one spouting paranoia.

Yeah, but my paranoia is archived.

Re: A few silly questions

Re: A few silly questions

Google has conspired with me to archive the threats I mentioned.

You keep invoking Google. The thing you need to remember is that Google
is not your friend since it also argues your nonsense.

You look stupid enough, without my having to Google up that fact that you are either a liar or a lunatic.

But how would you know, you only raise your head up long enough to listen to the collective, so that you can know what to parrot, before burying your head back in your bird-seed.

You see, this is very typical of you. You can't deal with substance so you fall back on insult.

That's because you are part of the collective. You can't be reasoned with.
You understand insult, you don't understand reason.

When the time comes where everyone on RMA is able to speak freely,
without being subjected to insults,

Wah, wah, wah. Also the height of hypocrisy.

Haha... The irony.

Why yes, there is extraordinary irony in your complaining about insults.
As I said, Google is not your friend.

If he's your friend, prove it.

threats, and spoiling tactics, my behaviour will also change. Not before.

Re: A few silly questions

Yeah, yeah, yeah. You'll be nice and polite so long as everybody tiptoes around and at least pretends to agree with you, no matter how egregious your comments. Oh, yes, and so long as every claim you make is accepted without question and you are accepted to be the ultimate authority on even when you disagree with professionals in the field—either present or by reference.

Nah, just not calling my mother a whore or issuing threats would go most of the way. Mostly, y'all have gotten with the program. Just a few hard-heads left. I'm already much nicer than I was.

So now you're trying the "big lie" tactic? Google is not your friend.

What lie?

Ain't gonna happen.

It already has. I serve my own purposes, not whatever is conjured up in your imagination. Everything's going to plan.

Sure, Hannibal. You love it when a plan comes together.

I do.

--

AKA "Dobbie The House Elf"

.