

Re: Ether Steam Engine ???

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2007-03/msg01325.html>

- From: The Ghost In The Machine <ewill@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 12 Mar 2007 15:18:43 -0700
-

In sci.physics, jimp@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
<jimp@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote
on Mon, 12 Mar 2007 21:25:02 GMT
<tps4-90g.ln1@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>:

G=EMC^2 Glazier <herbertglazier@xxxxxxxxx> wrote:

Ether boils at 96F Either is very explosive. Good engineering could come up with a clean combustibile engine. I have an idea mixed with water gas(steam) and you would end up with lots of energy. Bert Engines where the fuel detonates are soon called junk.

Pedant point: Diesel and Gasoline engines fall into this category. :-)

Or did you mean "detonates in the fuel tank"? :-)

—
#191, ewill3@xxxxxxxxxxxxx
Useless C++ Programming Idea #11823822:
`signal(SIGKILL, catchkill);`

—
Posted via a free Usenet account from <http://www.teranews.com>