

Re: Pi with bad calculator

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2007-03/msg02168.html>

- From: Sam Wormley <swormley1@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 19 Mar 2007 04:21:38 GMT
-

BioFreak wrote:

While vacationing in the Ozarks you're stuck with a little piece of grocery store calculator whose extravagance doesn't go beyond a mere square root button. But you're doing a back of the envelope calculation of something that begs for a value for Pi way better than 3.1415 which you can remember for sure. Other than cursing yourself for not remembering the next few digits what else can you do to manage?

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Euler's_identity

.