

Re: Richard Feynman

---

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2007-06/msg02418.html>

---

- From: "Jong Kim" <rh171@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Sat, 30 Jun 2007 08:12:50 -0700
-

"charles" <charlesbrough1@xxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:1183047348.402253.300320@xx>
On Jun 28, 7:24 am, "Jong Kim" <r...@xxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

June 27, 2007

Professor John Wheeler,

I emailed you last year several times, from September to November, concerning correct physics and the existence of God or the Supreme Creator, and now I'd like to discuss your celebrated student, Richard Feynman.

<snip>

Jong, It is a relief to switch from all the vicious ranting in the other posts to your kind and pleasant effort,

I'm not kind and pleasant to anti-Christ's like Francis Crick.
(Last year the Spirit of God confirmed to me that Crick went to hell.)

With Richard Feynman, I'm naturally inclined to be respectful, but the Lord having revealed me that he also was an anti-Christ (the actual wording was "son of perdition"), I can no longer sustain Feynman in any way, though I suppose I will still quote him on things like least action. That shows you, for one thing, that I too am liable to think subjectively as a frail human being like anyone else, since logically speaking, Feynman was as arrogant as Crick, but the way he presented his arrogance was charismatic, at least to me.

but I am totally perplexed why you have posted such an endless piece! I actually did read a lot of it, but I doubt that anyone else has. If no one reads it because it is so big, it seems to me pointless to make such large posts.

Re: Richard Feynman

I guess the problem is that in our modern society, we are all bombarded all the time every day with masses of words that are exhortations, platitudes, promotions and other waste of time. We take a look at the size of your post and right away make a judgment. Is it worth reading?

8 Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here [am] I; send me.

9 ¶ And he said, Go, and tell this people, Hear ye indeed, but understand not; and see