

Re: How to fix New York

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.physics/2007-11/msg01142.html>

- From: "Tom Potter" <tdp1001@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 17 Nov 2007 21:09:37 +0800
-

"Uncle Al" <UncleAl0@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:473C9B85.DCDE742F@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

Tom Potter wrote: [snip crap]

and tens of thousands of pedacabs transported folks from the subways and trolleys
to their destinations,

[snip rest of crap]

Urine, feces, body odor. Who's gonna pedal, moron – Welfare cases?
Addicts? The Officially Sad? Let's import Mexicans to oversee Puerto Ricans.

I suggest that if modern trolley lines were built in Manhattan, and cars were banned,
and the free market was allowed to function,
that there would be plenty of people who would "pedal".

The body odor problem solves itself.
For example, when I hail a cab,
if the cab smells bad, or of smoke,
I tell the driver I'll wait for a better smelling cab.

Any urine and feces can be solved by installing public rest rooms about the city.

In fact, it might be a good idea for you to buy a pedacab and get in on the ground floor,
as you would be stronger and healthier,
and no doubt have a more positive mental attitude.

Re: How to fix New York

Science has found that fat, lazy people are not only unhealthy,
but they are not as happy as active folks.

--
Tom Potter

<http://home.earthlink.net/~tdp>
<http://notsocrazyideas.blogspot.com/>