George Hammond agrees with the gist of what you've been saying:
jail the con men .. but we're talking millions of people here,
a virtual sea of people who promoted Insane mortgages.

Bubbles are easy to detect, just ask yourself:
What's the earnings yield ? How leveraged are they ? .

Congress and Bush's team recently spent 1 trillion dollars on Insane mortgages .. not the 700 billion you mentioned.

The homeless need cheaper, better-supervised apartments ..
not more food, not more jail/hospital-time.

Society would actually save money if they did that;
instead, they waste trillions and trillions on insane mortgages and nation building .
