

Re: Apollo CM that you can climb into?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.space.history/2005-05/msg01034.html>

- From: "Stan Marsh" <therocketman@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 16 May 2005 23:26:41 -0400
-

In 1997 (I think) there was one at the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville AL. No idea of present status but not a bad place to start.

"Bill" <mediaconversions@xxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:1cbi81lodbraek5rk5ids1vpcdhibd4f61@xxxxxxxxxxxxx
> Is there an Apollo CM or exact replica somewhere that one can actually > climb into? Without being a close friend of the museum curator or > something?

• References:

- ◆ Apollo CM that you can climb into?
 ◇ From: Bill
- Prev by Date: Re: CEV PDO
- Next by Date: Re: Apollo CM that you can climb into?
- Previous by thread: Apollo CM that you can climb into?
- Next by thread: Re: Apollo CM that you can climb into?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread