

Re: How many satellites are in geosynchronous orbit by now?

Re: How many satellites are in geosynchronous orbit by now?

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.space.history/2005-12/msg00194.html>

---

- From: "Ed Kyle" <edkyle99@xxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: 4 Dec 2005 20:02:26 -0800
-

Soren Kuula wrote:

- > Does anybody know an estimate how many satellites are in geosynchronous
- > orbit? How many of them are operational?
- >
- > Are there any accounts of collisions among them? I know that they won't
- > collide if all in the same orbit, but there are imperfections, right?
- >
- > Soren

You should be able to find the answer in these data:

"<http://www.planet4589.org/space/book/LOGS/logindex/geo.html>

– Ed Kyle

.

---

- Follow-Ups:
  - ◆ Re: How many satellites are in geosynchronous orbit by now?
    - ◇ From: Ed Kyle
- References:
  - ◆ How many satellites are in geosynchronous orbit by now?
    - ◇ From: Soren Kuula
- Prev by Date: How many satellites are in geosynchronous orbit by now?
- Next by Date: New LLTV Needed?
- Previous by thread: How many satellites are in geosynchronous orbit by now?
- Next by thread: Re: How many satellites are in geosynchronous orbit by now?
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread