Gee whiz folks, when exactly has our government ever not told us the absolute truth, nor having destroyed evidence?

In jest, I guess there's a first time in our pathetic history for everything. Imagine that, we have ourselves yet another horrifically spendy government agency that apparently made an actual mistake for the very first, one and only time. Gosh, am I amazed, or what?

You folks have got to be kidding, as I suppose next we'll hear that the secure vault of photographic archives as to all the original film that was supposedly returned from the moon surface for terrestrial processing will either have imploded or having vanished like all of those Iraq WMD. Perhaps a significant meteor impact can be blamed for the loss of such rad-hard film that was also double-IR tolerant and otherwise had such unusually piss-poor DR that it made everything look so xenon illuminated and thus somehow couldn't have recorded the absolute vibrance of Venus that was unavoidably situated nearby in that crystal clear black sky as of A-11, A-14 and A-16.

What about all of the R&D of the various prototype scaled fly-by-rocket landers that somehow managed their daunting task of cruising such tonnage past those horrific mascons, and of otherwise buffering against the torque imposed by those above center of gravity bang-bang reaction thrusters, and without such critical flight maneuvers ever involving momentum reaction wheels. I suppose all of that's either become stealth, invisible or gone missing.

There's so much that's simply dead wrong and/or skewed from the nearest space-toilet about those supposed moon landings, that it begs for being disclosed as simply a major cloak and dagger function of our hocus-pocus and otherwise fully perpetrated cold-war(s), as having cost humanity those trillions upon trillions for the past four wasted decades, and counting.
