

Re: OT: Tragedy Of The Century

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.space.history/2006-10/msg00067.html>

- From: "Eric Chomko" <pne.chomko@xxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 28 Sep 2006 20:10:20 -0700
-

Rand Simberg wrote:

On 28 Sep 2006 19:34:36 -0700, in a place far, far away, "Eric Chomko" <pne.chomko@xxxxxxxxxxx> made the phosphor on my monitor glow in such a way as to indicate that:

Rand Simberg wrote:

On Thu, 28 Sep 2006 16:34:41 GMT, in a place far, far away, simberg.interglobal@xxxxxxxxxxx (Rand Simberg) made the phosphor on my monitor glow in such a way as to indicate that:

But being a Christian
who doesn't want to
bash people,
though, I can understand your reticence to do this,
Bruce.

Calling Chuck, Bruce, and implying that he won't help
you because he's a Christian sort of evens out your claim of above.

Re: OT: Tragedy Of The Century

Sorry, I was confusing him with B-Chan for some reason.
Brain
flatulence.

Progress, as you often tend to feel inherently superior for some strange reason.

No. I only feel superior to idiots like you. And justifiably so.

Yes, but you too easily claim that people are idiots, morons and the like. You don't know me nor do you know what I do. Do you?

Anyway, what is the time limit on getting this list of ten? Surely you should have a timeout value?

Nope. Whenever it gets to ten, that's it. In fact, I may not even wait, because I wouldn't want to burn those who signed on. As I said, Henry should probably count for more than one. But I'm going out of town for a few days, so I probably won't follow through either way until I return.

FWIW, have a safe trip. It'll all be back here when you return. In the mean time I intend to educate Fred (if that is possible) about the provability of algorithms.

Eric

P.S. The only vote that hurt was Henry's, but that is another story...

.