A 10 G re-entry after six months in orbit has to be a p.i.t.a.

Yes, the G's might squeeze them out like flatbread. :-)

At least the Soyuz didn't kill them, but still, not the preferred way to end a mission.

James Oberg has article out on it now: <http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/24243569/>

He doesn't mention the fact that there is supposed to be only one more flight with the old computer system though.
