

Re: The War We Refuse To Win

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.space.policy/2004-06/0095.html>

From: Paul Blay (ranma_at_saotome.demon.co.uk)

Date: 06/02/04

Date: Wed, 2 Jun 2004 16:46:26 +0100

"Henry Spencer" wrote ...

- > In article <1086176861.455249@haldjas.folklore.ee>,
- > Sander Vesik <sander@haldjas.folklore.ee> wrote:
- >> Forget that. If petroleum gets too expensive, we should run our cars
- >> on... gasoline. Produced via thermal depolymerization from garbage.
- >> Google on "turkey fuel."
- >>
- >> Remind me – where did you get the cache of money to build all that
- >> infrastructure with?
- >
- > If fuel prices are allowed to rise as supply dwindles, there will be
- > plenty of investment money for anything that promises cheaper sources.
- > Only if you want to get "ahead of the curve", building capacity before
- > it's needed, is there a funding problem.

True enough. The tricky bit (or at least /a/ tricky bit) is how steep that curve will be at the end.

How much elasticity is there in the fossil-fuel oil market?