

sci.space.policy: Re: What to do there? (Was: Re: Space Tourism (was Re: Orbiter shape.)

Re: What to do there? (Was: Re: Space Tourism (was Re: Orbiter shape.)

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.space.policy/2004-08/0219.html>

From: Dave O'Neill (_at_)

Date: 08/02/04

Date: Mon, 02 Aug 2004 18:29:22 GMT

"Rand Simberg" <newsgroups@transterrestrial.com> wrote in message news:YWrPc.6482$9Y6.5128@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net...

> Perplexed in Peoria wrote:

>

> >> The US has no federal laws against prostitution (yet). Individual > >> states do, but not the country. If that were to change, it would be one > >> more disastrous blow (like the federal drug laws) against federalism.

> >

> >

> > You ought to Google for the Mann Act.

>

> Not relevant to space.

>

> > Also consider whether you believe that prostitution is as legal in national > > parks and the District of Columbia as it is in some counties of Nevada.

>

> Irrelevant to space.

The UK version would be to do you for "living off immoral earnings" – it's an interesting idea though.

Allen Steele explores part of this in Clarke County: Space.

Dave