I am on My way to the Cape in a hour. I will talk with John Young in the morning. I will ask Him these questions on the funding of the early Shuttle design & construction. I did not mean to stray of topic from the original article, (You are right there Rand). Sometimes I tend to stray, and mix, when I am trying to form a comment. As for My commend of written English, (Well I am a Architect, (and tend to write in short burst, (Like the notes I write to the spec. write folks))). Sorry if this has rubbed You the wrong way.

I have many friends at the Cape, & Huntsville,

And if you want any at GSFC you'll refrain from trying to send the STs to JPL. :)

I will be glad to find the details on the funding trail, (for this thread, and just to have the real history for future model project notes). I just want to be as spot on, as one can be. I have a group of Kids that look up to Me for space history. I do not want to give them the wrong information either.

Several STS missions are dubbed "DOD". Surely the DOD funds those.

Have a great day, (and say a prayer for the crew about to fly),
