As I keep on saying he is a DISINFORMER. Off his own bat or prompted I just don't know. In view of some of the things I read I can believe just about anything.

ET will have made interstellar journeys with AI or not at all.

<laughing at Ian's monomania>

Yes, of course. It's not possible to do anything without AI. Just look at the world around us.

What is your route to interstellar travel Rand. Warp drive – that is the only alternative. What else is there, an ark where a large number of generations make an interstellar trip? – piffle!

If it is impossible to develop AI then interstellar travel is impossible. End of story.

What is it that Fred McCall posting about. Of course Aurora and Blackstar are figments of my imagination. Wern't they produced by LGMs on Venus – or somewhere?

I am beginning to realize something. It is the Pentagon that is promoting flying saucers as a cover for black flight. That is the real conspiracy. this is what this story is effectively saying.

Flying saucers – ET origin cannot exist. Surely anyone who looks at flying saucers and compares with current concepts of technology would immediately suspect this. Lets take alien abduction for a kick off. It took off before sophisticated methods of analysing DNA became available. They took eggs – Hell, did they have to. All you need in CSI is to have handled something, fired a gun. No there is no alien abduction. No – ET hangs around fairground shooting galleries. Can't you smell a rat? – Call the rodent officer!

The rodent officer was very interested in the envelope. It says a lot.
