China should take on 51%. If not China, then India or perhaps Japan could pick up 51%, especially a good buy if that Russian spaceship maker is down to 10 cents on the dollar.

Of course, we could always mutually restart that fully perpetrated cold-war, and let those cold-war bags of our hard earned loot start flowing in the direction of yet another WMD and space race. If not an actual for real race to our moon or of its L1, then how about accomplishing Venus, or at least POOF City at VL2 ???
