

Re: Lunar rilles

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.space.policy/2007-09/msg00529.html>

---

- From: "Jeff Findley" <jeff.findley@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 20 Sep 2007 16:34:31 -0400
-

"Frogwatch" <dbohara@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:1190318362.612676.17120@xx>

If they are lava tubes, I am surprised we have not seen such a "gaping mouth" on images from various orbiters because many of them stop and start in a way that should produce such

If the US does return to the moon, this would be an interesting surface feature to investigate in person.

Jeff

—

"They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety"

– B. Franklin, Bartlett's Familiar Quotations (1919)

.