No, but if they don't, they're not true Muslims by the Koran.

All religions want their religion to proliferate in some form or another.

Not true.

Rand, when a religion states "you are what your mother is", is a form of proliferating that religion. Jews, though they do not prothletize(sp) as other religions do, they do have children and rather than make them Christian or Muslim expect them to be Jewish. That is proliferation.

Re: Retooling the Vision for Space Exploration

I wasn't talking about Jews. In any event, this is (as usual) an idiotic change of subject. The issues wasn't whether or not ones religion would "proliferate." It was about whether any others should be tolerated.

But all religions are also interpretative and have some form of tolerance for others to some degree.

Also not true.

Name one that isn't.

Wahhabi Islam.

By far, those Old Testament thumbing Zionists are about as far in denial of all other religions as you can get. Remember, they'd put one of their own kind on a stick just for accomplishing another one of their faith-based PR stunts. (you simply can't place blame entirely on those Romans that were only doing as asked and/or fully expected of them).

In modern times, it's called death by cop, whereas you merely wave a rubber knife at a cop and they summarily shoot you dead with multiple head and upper torso shots from each of those guns of multiple cops, any one of which could have just as easily blown off a kneed-cap instead of terminating the guy waving that rubber knife. Hells bells, they recent multiple shot one obviously buzzed out guy simply because he'd been exposing himself and otherwise acting somewhat crazy, though without his having any sign of a lethal weapon didn't matter to the cop that was obviously taking this guy's weird actions a little too personally.
