They actually brought another PDFG (Power Data Grapple Fixture, aka Station Arm base) like the one on Destiny, which will be installed on Node 2.

So, when the new node is in between the main station and the pma, and the shuttle is again docked, will the station arm still be able to reach into the payload bay, ie can its mobile base be taken along to do that?

Itts hard imagining the station changes when you cannot see. I say that in case anyone thinks I'm round the bend!
