You presume when you could have gathered data. I've posted here for a while and my past comments on RF's tone in his posts are archived. Of course, that would have required that you do a bit of work...

you haven't seen Bob Ling's choice of words. Why not take a look at his postings in a thread I started and then comment?

Why not get some data as I suggested above and then reply to me? Even better, quite posting off topic junk like the first post in this thread. If you have some comments about RF's abrasive tone, just be direct and write "Bob, you have an abrasive tone which tends to unnecessarily annoy people" or something like that. Then I might even agree with you. But what you posted was just, as I said, gratuitous.

Cheers,
Russell
