

sci.techniques.microscopy: help: mounting medium for live cell fluorescent microscopy?

help: mounting medium for live cell fluorescent microscopy?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.techniques.microscopy/2004-09/0063.html>

From: Patrick (egf_repeats_at_hotmail.com)

Date: 09/22/04

Date: 22 Sep 2004 11:27:14 -0700

Hi, can anybody recommend a mounting medium for live cell fluorescent microscopy except water? I tried glycerol based mounting medium VECTASHIELD H-1000 but it bursted my cells immediately. Water is okay but is there anything better than water in terms of preventing the movement of the cells under microscope and better optical qualities?
Thanks.